Dear Open Space supporter,

We are extraordinarily fortunate in Boulder County to have more than 130,000 acres of land managed under our city and county open space programs. Imagine how different this place would look if we hadn't acquired these lands.

Now we are faced with the challenge of their management and use.

Friends of Boulder Open Space is committed to the long-term conservation and use of these lands for the benefit of present and future generations. We have been actively promoting development of area management plans that address habitat and wildlife protection, cultural values, and recreational and agricultural uses in a place-specific manner. We need to decide as a community what our long-term vision for these lands is and how we will manage and use the lands to achieve that vision.

FOBOS is now in its second year. In our first year we moved from a group of nine concerned individuals to an active organization of 200 members. We encourage you to join. Our most recent newsletter is enclosed and will give you more information about what we are doing.

Please join today!
